UTILITIES AGAIN
LEAD IN ACTIVITY

Railroad and Oil Shares Are More Prominent in Trade—Profit-Taking in Coppers.

NEW YORK, June 17.—"Bull" retained control of the price movement in the New York Stock market today, pushing at least a score of issues into new high ground for the year. While public speculation continued on a relatively small scale, trading broadened somewhat in character as it regained confidence and stepped up its favorites in the market. The public would be the market next month, and money held steady at 7 per cent, with some funds regarded as being placed at 8 per cent, or 1 1/2 per cent below a month ago. Calls for most of stock subscription in the next few weeks are expected to cause a substantial increase in broker's loans.

UTILITIES LEAD TRADE

Public utilities again led in activity. Commonwealth Edison, which established a new record at 24 1/2 on Saturday, rose nearly 14 points on profit-taking. On the other hand, Detroit Edison soared 14 to a new record at 253, and North American moved up 6 1/2 to a new high at 123 1/2. American Water closed 6 points higher and United Gas and Radio 2.

PROFIT-TAKING IN COPPERS

General activity and strength in the market, which closed 3 1/2 higher at 74 1/2, was attributed to the Fisher interests. Second earnings of the corporation expected to set a new high record for the period. Nash also was in demand on buying credit banks for the company.

RAIL STOCKS BOUGHT

Most of the railroad stocks were bought in the closing session last week. Demand ran again principally in the lower grade of carrier stocks. The annual dividend on the Dry Ginger Ale was in from $4 to $5.

WHEAT PRICE DOWN

Reaction of the grain market was disappointing to those who expected the signing of a relief bill by President Coolidge to act as a stimulant.

'SUPREME COURT SHUFFLE' UP TO LOCAL OFFICERS

Assistant Attorney-General
Replies to Franklin
Miller's Complaint on Prison Evasions.

CHECK-UP OF ALL APPEALS SOUGHT

St. Louis Prosecutor Told
It Is His Duty to Follow Cases and Deliver Convicts to Serve Terms.

By the Jefferson City Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.
JEFFERSON CITY, June 17.—Responsibility for prevention of the so-called "Supreme Court shuffle," by which persons convicted of crimes take appeals, never perfect them, and in some instances escape punishment indefinitely, does not rest with the Supreme Court or Attorney-General, but with local officers who should follow up the cases, Assistant Attorney-General Lieut. Cunningham declared in a letter to Circuit Attorney Franklin Miller of St. Louis.

Miller had written to the Attorney-General's department, asking a general check-up of St. Louis criminal appeal cases, and action to prevent defendants from escaping punishment through the "shuffle," after discovering a St. Louis criminal case in which the defendant had been at liberty since 1925, after taking an appeal which was not perfected.

The case was that of Phillip P. Nickel of St. Louis, convicted of grand larceny on March 2, 1925, and was released on $5000 appeal bond by the lower court.

Appeal Dismissed.
The Supreme Court dismissed the appeal on June 25, 1926, on a motion by the Attorney-General, and the court mandate showing this action was sent to the clerk of the St. Louis Circuit Court for Criminal Causes on July 14, 1926, and filed in his office. No further action was taken, and Nickel remained at liberty until recently, when the prosecuting witness called Miller's attention to the matter. Nickel was arrested on an order by the Circuit Attorney, and a commitment issued for his imprisonment.

Cunningham said the Attorney-General regularly filed motions to dismiss appeal cases when not perfected within the time allowed, and that the court mandate showing the dismissal always was sent to the clerk of the trial court.

"It becomes the duty of the clerk of the trial court to file the mandate, call it to the attention of the court, and issue and deliver a commitment to the Sheriff," Cunningham stated in the letter. "The Sheriff should take charge of the defendant, and take him to prison, or, if unable to find the defendant, bring the matter to the attention of the trial court and prosecuting officer so that proper steps may be taken for forfeiture of the appeal bond."

No Information on Cases.
Cunningham pointed out that in some instances where defendants won appeals, and none of the papers in the case was filed with or certified to the clerk of the Supreme Court by the clerk of the trial court, neither the Supreme Court nor the Attorney-General would have any information on such an appeal or the existence of the case.

In such instances, he said, the responsibility rested with local officers to watch the case, and take action if the appellant did not have the trial court clerk send a transcript of the record to the Supreme Court, as required by law, within the year allowed for perfecting the appeal.

Cunningham referred in his letter to 51 appeals in St. Louis criminal cases which had been dismissed by the Supreme Court on motion of the Attorney-General, for failure to perfect appeals, within the last five years. In each of these cases the mandate of dismissal was sent to the clerk of the trial court, but the Supreme Court and Attorney-General's department had no means of knowing whether St. Louis officers took appropriate action to commit the defendants to prison, Cunningham said.

Local Officers Blamed.
"It is clearly within your province and duty to see that proper action is taken," Cunningham wrote. "If in any of such cases the defendant has not been taken into custody and required to serve his sentence, or a forfeiture taken on his appeal bond, they are not allowed to remain at liberty through lack of co-operation of the Supreme Court, and its clerk and marshal, and this department, but the entire responsibility rests with the local officers."

"Cases from the city of St. Louis are handled in the same manner as cases from counties," Cunningham concluded. "In our opinion, you have the means and owe the duty to remedy the conditions of which you complain. In our opinion there is no foundation for the term, 'the Supreme Court shuffle,' which you say is commonly used."

TWO GERMAN FLYERS KILLED WHEN PLANE WINGS FALL OFF

Two War Veterans Noted as Glider
Pilots Fall to Death at Dedication

STUTTGART, West Prussia, June 17.—Two of the best known German glider flyers were killed yesterday. The wings broke from the fuselage of an airplane they were flying in the dedication ceremony of a war memorial here. Thousands of persons saw the body of the plane separate from the wings and with the aviators crash into the center of the market place, 150 feet from the memorial. The wings fell into a small lake nearby.

One of the flyers was Ferdinand Schutz, who was credited with world records for both height and endurance in gliders. He was a pilot and had flown in glider contests in many parts of Europe. Bruno Kaiser, his companion, also was a war veteran.

CHARGES DRY BOARD BROKE CAMPAIGN LAW

Congressman Tinkham Says Methodist Society Failed to File Expense Account.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, June 19. — A charge that the Methodist Board of Temperance, Prohibition and Public Morals had violated the corrupt practice act of 1925 in failing to file a report of its expenditures in the last presidential campaign was made by Representative Tinkham (Rep.) of Massachusetts.

The allegation was embodied in a letter to Clarence True Wilson, secretary of the organization, the second Tinkham has addressed to him in a week. In the first, he asked whether such a report had been filed.

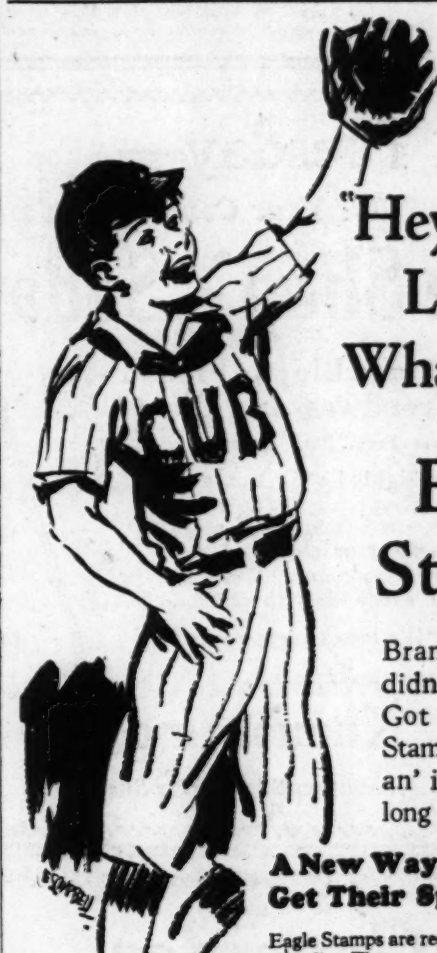

Yesterday he declared he had received no answer and asserting that the reason was "apparent," said that Wilson "could not deny" that the board "had violated the corrupt practices act of 1925," a criminal statute which requires that any organization of whatsoever character making expenditures in two or more states in behalf of presidential or congressional candidates shall make a sworn return, to the clerk of the House of Representatives of such political expenditures.

In addition, Tinkham said, Wilson had "told a gross falsehood" when he declared on April 30 "we have no lobby here; we have no lobbyists."

The issue for the American people to settle," Tinkham said, "is whether any church as an organization in the United States is to be allowed to assume political authority and to usurp temporal power."

U. S. RECEIVER
SOUGHT FOR AUTO
INSURANCE FIRM

Three Texans Allege Indemnity Co. of America Failed to Pay $7500 Judgment.

Suit for a receiver for the Indemnity Co. of America, a $250,000 automobile insurance concern with headquarters in the Pierce Building, was filed in Federal Court today by three residents of Texas.

George T. Priest, an attorney, is president and sole stockholder of the company. Charles A. Long, formerly was president. The company was incorporated in Missouri in 1917. Parties concerned were called to a conference in Judge Davis' chambers on filing of the suit and it was announced afterward that as a result of a request of persons interested in the company the court would defer making an order until noon. The suit asked for immediate appointment of a temporary receiver "to prevent gross waste and dissipation" of the assets and, after a hearing, of a permanent receiver. The plaintiffs are Fred, Charles and Martha Hatton, who aver they obtained a $7500 judgment in Texas against F. L. Engler of Chicago, a co-defendant in the suit, for the death of Ida Hatton, who was run over by an automobile driven by Engler. The company defended their damage suit against Engler. It is set forth, but, although it is more than 30 days since the Supreme Court of Texas affirmed the judgment on appeal, the company has failed to pay it.

The Federal Court is asked to declare this and any similar judgments equitable liens against the company's assets.

The plaintiffs assert they tried to collect the judgment through the Texas Insurance Commissioner but that payment was refused to him, and that they have since tried to get an accurate statement of the company's condition. The company, however, it is alleged, "in collusion with and in connection with the Missouri Insurance Department, has misrepresented, concealed and falsely stated the condition of the company, so as to mislead and prevent the plaintiff from collecting."

During the period of the existence of the Hatton judgment, it is further alleged, the company, "with the knowledge of the Missouri Insurance Department, has continued to dissipate, secrete and conceal its assets to such an extent that the plaintiffs' claim has become prejudiced."

Describing the business as a "valuable plant," Priest said today the allegations did not strike him as unusual for such a suit, and he added that he was not taking it seriously. No attempt has been made to conceal assets, he declared, and there has been no collusion with Missouri insurance authorities. Negotiations are under way, Priest admitted, to sell out his stock holding in entirety, but he said he did not know whether the deal would be consummated and he declined to talk about it, except that it might be concluded today. State Insurance Superintendent Thompson, at Jefferson City today, said Chief Actuary Daly and two aids were in St. Louis examining the Indemnity Co. of America and if the examination showed the business to be in satisfactory condition the department would take charge of it. Thompson said he had no comment on the allegations concerning his department, not having seen the suit.

PRaises FRANKNESS ON SEX PROBLEMS

Yale Divinity School Dean Commends Attitude of Modern Youth.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., June 17.—The frank attitude of modern youth toward sex problems received the commendation and support of Dr. Charles Reynolds Brown, dean emeritus of Yale Divinity School, in his address at the baccalaureate service yesterday in Woolsey Hall at Yale University.

"There is a frank recognition," he said, "of the physical basis of life, an open-eyed acquaintance with that attraction one sex has for the other which is not immodest or immoral. It may well be far more wholesome in its results than sham and make-believe which have done much to make that side of life seem unworthy."

Dr. Brown made a plea for a union of the "bold idealism of youth" with the "riper judgment of experience" in treating the problems of today, calling upon each to maintain an open-minded attitude toward the other.

"I have no sympathy whatever with the wholesale decrying of the tendencies of youth," he said. "The young persons are not everything that is great and grand and good; neither are they the last word of total depravity. They are mixed like the rest of us. The wheat and the tares grow together, for good or ill, according to the seed sown. And those of us who are older, who have in our day sown both the wild oats and the finest wheat, will make our best showing when we maintain a cordial open-minded attitude."

"First, in the relation of the sexes, it is a problem much discussed these days. If we are to have more harmonious relations between the sexes, men and women must understand each other better. Mature persons can scarcely credit their ears sometimes when they hear youngsters discussing openly subjects once treated with the greatest reserve. They can scarcely credit their eyes sometimes when they see certain books, plays, pictures spread out before young and old alike as freely as if they were grass and trees. What effect will all this amazing frankness have upon modesty and upon morality? No one can say as yet. We have not tried it long enough to know—we shall have to wait and see."

"If this open way of dealing with questions of sex, marriage and family life means the lowering of that high sense of chivalry which every decent man feels instinctively toward womanhood; if it means the lessening of that fine sense of reserve which every woman feels instinctively regarding herself, it will be a loss irreparable. If it means the dragging down of certain relations, making them common and unclean, it will spell social disaster."

"We cannot afford to lose those considerations which have lifted human life to higher levels than those occupied by other animals. And there are types of loose talk and books and pictures and plays which belong in the garbage barrel, and the sooner decent society puts them in the garbage barrel the better it will be for all concerned."

ZOO EMPLOYE TRAPS SNAKES

PIGGOTT, Ark., June 17.—Moody Lentz, former resident, now employed in the snake house of the St. Louis Zoo, is here capturing snakes. He has trapped a number of rattlers, water snakes, copperheads and blacksnakes.

In December, 1928, Lentz saved the life of a fellow employee who had been bitten by a poisonous African viper.

WOMAN KILLED BY GAS CORONER'S JURY FINDS

Mrs. Walter Womack Was Found Dead at Foot of Bed by Husband.

A verdict of death by gas poisoning was returned today by a coroner's jury in the case of Mrs. Lola Womack, 21 years old, of 2895 Hereford street, who was found dead at the foot of her bed yesterday morning.

Mrs. Womack was found at the foot of her bed by her husband, Walter, 38 years old, a sales manager, when he awoke. There was a strong odor of gas in the room and the windows were closed, he testified at the inquest, and when he was unable to revive his wife he called friends who summoned a doctor.

The gas stove leaked, but had recently been repaired, Womack testified.

An autopsy performed by Dr. P. L. Carriere showed that liquor drunk by Mrs. Womack at a wedding anniversary celebration the previous night did not contribute to her death.

There came under his control the conduct of 1500 social institutions, including industrial homes, open-air farms for children, men's hotels, day schools and soldiers' hotels. Additional activities of the Salvation Army under his direction included the conduct of a bank, an insurance company and an immigration company.

The World War offered opportunity for new activities by the Salvation Army and its members did their work so well that in the end the army had been raised from the status of a poor man's charity to a powerful international organization.

Born in Halifax, England, March 8, 1856, he was known generally as Bramwell Booth to distinguish him from his father during the latter's lifetime. He received a severe training from his parents for his life work. Appointed chief of staff in 1880, he served in that capacity under his father until the latter's death in 1912. By his father's will he was appointed commander in chief of the Salvation Army.

In 1880 Gen. Booth married Miss Eleanor Soper. They had two sons and five daughters. Mrs. Booth became leader of women's social work of the Salvation Army and in 1920 was raised to a magistracy by the British Government.

Although he eventually inherited command of the Salvation Army, General Booth was compelled as a young man to prove that he possessed the qualifications that would fit him for the office. As the chief lieutenant of his father he went into the East End, or slum district of London and carried on the work assigned to him.

BOOTH'S DEATH TO END LITIGATION IN SALVATION ARMY

Organization Will Conduct Ceremonial Service June 24 for Son of Founder, Who Died Last Night.

KING ONE OF MANY TO SEND SYMPATHY

Distress Over Conflict Which Ousted Him Last February Is Thought to Have Shortened Life.

By the Associated Press.

HADLEY WOOD, England, June 17.—Covered with a Salvation Army banner the body of Gen. William Bramwell Booth lay in his suburban house here today. His death at 9 o'clock last night was unrecognized by any outward sign among the rank and file of the Salvation Army, which he headed for 16 years until deposed four months ago. Fifty-six years of his life had been devoted to this organization founded by his father, William Booth.

Not a flag was lowered at the international headquarters in Queen Victoria street. "We keep our standards flying high," said a high official. "For Gen. Booth is not dead—he has passed to glory."

But though the army tradition does not admit loss, there was in evidence everywhere among the Salvationists a deep sense of personal loss that they felt at the 73-year-old General's death, so quietly and suddenly after final months of life which had been filled with the agony of ill health, distasteful conflict, and defeat.

The General spoke to his family yesterday afternoon before he lapsed into unconsciousness. What his words were, however, has not been disclosed to the public. One who was near to him said today, "He didn't know the end was so near."

The peace of the tree-shaded street in Hadley Wood where he lived was broken today only by the opening and shutting of the gate as messenger boys brought cables with messages of sympathy and condolence to Mrs. Booth and her children from all parts of the world. With the exception of Commissioner Mary Booth, who is returning from Germany, all members of the family are here and were at the bedside when he died.

Mrs. Booth received a message of sympathy from King George reading as follows:

"The Queen and I have heard with regret of the death of Gen. Bramwell Booth and we offer you our sincere sympathy in your bereavement. With his father he will always be gratefully remembered as the promoter of the widespread and beneficent activities of the Salvation Army."

The funeral will be June 24, with full Salvation Army honors. The burial will take place in Abney Park Cemetery in London, where the General's parents are buried.

In London Gen. Edward J. Higgins, successor to Gen. Booth at the head of the Salvation Army, said: "Gen. Booth was a great man. His 16 years of leadership embraced the period of the World War, but his skill and wisdom brought the Army through as an unbroken international unit. Gratitude for his life and notable services will be expressed by our members all over the world."

Higgins and other Army chiefs expressed the wish that Gen. Booth have a ceremonial Army funeral similar to that accorded his famous father.

Expected to End Litigation. One effect of the General's death, it was thought, would be to put an end to litigation connected with the Army's leadership. It was thought distress he felt at deposition as head of the Army had an adverse effect upon his physical condition and may have shortened his life.

Gen. Booth was removed from his office as commander in chief of the Army in February, 1929, when after a long fight the high council of the Army ruled he was physically unfit to continue his work. The ouster followed growth of a reform movement within the Army in which his own sister, Commander Evangeline Booth, head of the Army in the United States, lined up with the reformers.

In April, 1929, King George signally honored General Booth by making him a member of the Order of Companions of Honor. The order was founded by the king in 1917 for men and women who had rendered conspicuous service. Its membership is limited to 50.

General Booth devoted his life to strengthening and extending the organization founded to promulgate the teaching of religion among persons not reached by the churches and to give men and women who had failed a new start in life.

He inherited command of the Salvation Army from his father, the late Gen. William Booth, its founder, whose chief lieutenant he had been for many years. As commander-in-chief he became the guiding director and administrator of an organization whose annual revenue has been estimated at $40,000,000.

GAINS IN MISSOURI INDUSTRIES REPORTED

U. S. Survey Shows Increase in Auto and Machinery Plants
During May.

Employment conditions in Missouri during May were generally satisfactory, according to a United States Department of Labor report.

Employment gains during the month were noted in automobile assembly plants, shoe factories, mail order houses, and implement plants. River work, city sewer and street jobs, and road construction provided employment for many transient laborers in St. Louis and other cities of the State. Packing plants, steel mills and lumber yards also made brisk labor demands. Clerical workers of both sexes were in better demand than during April.

Heavy demands for unskilled farm workers, railroad maintenance and construction jobs are anticipated. Many unskilled workers assisted in harvesting the strawberry crop in Southwest Missouri. Heavy demands for workers to assist with the wheat harvest are now being made.

Building mechanics were, in general, fairly well employed throughout the State, although strikes caused more than 5000 building craftsmen to be idle in St. Louis during May. Public utility concerns increased forces during the month and municipal improvements brought additional demands for workers.

A small employment increase occurred in the mining district near Joplin.

FOUNDER OF CATHOLIC ORGANIZATION BEATIFIED

Pope Attends Ceremony in Honor of Father Caludio de la Columbiere at St. Peter's.

By the Associated Press.

VATICAN CITY, June 17.—Father Caludio de la Colombiere, Jesuit founder of the world-wide devotion to the Sacred Heart of Jesus, gained the rank of the blessed yesterday at the third beatification in St. Peter's this month. Many Americans, including a special pilgrimage of 150 members of the League of the Sacred Heart, led by Father Charles J. Mullaly, participated in the ceremonies. St. Peter's was elaborately decorated. In the afternoon Pope Pius, accompanied by Cardinals, venerated the beatified and remained for benediction at which he gave pontifical blessing.

St. Peter's was partly illuminated last night and a statue dedicated to the Sacred Heart of Jesus, erected on Janiculum Hill near the general headquarters of the Jesuits, was unveiled.

HELD FOR STABBING RELATIVE

Two Brothers Arrested on Charge of Felonious Assault.

Robert Christian, 25 years old, a bricklayer, and his brother, O'Neil, 19, a baker, of 3829 Sherman place, were arrested yesterday by Deputy Sheriffs charged with felonious assault in the beating and stabbing Saturday of their brother-in-law, Joseph Obermuesermann, 29, of Venice, Ill.

According to Obermuesermann, he remonstrated with Robert Christian in the latter's home for mistreating his child and the Christian brothers attacked him later as he was about to enter the home of a brother at 2212 Melrose avenue, St. Louis County. Robert knocked him down, he said, and O'Neil stabbed him. Obermuesermann was cut about the back, chest and head.

Capt. Wycliffe Booth Tells of Father's Private Life.

By the Associated Press.

Capt. Wycliffe Booth today told of his father's private life. "I cannot sufficiently emphasize my father's complete devotion to the Salvation Army and its founder," he declared.

"At the age of 18 he became an officer in the Christian mission. At the age of 23 he became the founder's right-hand man and until the founder's death filled a Lieutenant's job. There was more than the ordinary love of a father and son between those two. They complemented each other. "My earliest childhood memories are linked with the vision of my father returning home late at night from meetings and, after greeting the family, looking for the light in the upper window of the house opposite, which indicated that the founder was awaiting the visit of his son before going to sleep. "That light was never extinguished, regardless of the lateness of the hour, until Bramwell had encountered the day's doings and bade the founder good night. "Close as my father was to his children—and he was a wonderful father despite his busy life—there was no such relationship between us. "On the founder's eightieth birthday, Bramwell showed him the congratulations from the press and notable people from all parts of the world. "Isn't that wonderful, father?" Bramwell asked him. "The founder turned to his son with an affectionate smile. "It's not what they say I am, but what I am—and what you think I am," he replied."

VOLCANO DRIVES JAPANESE FROM VILLAGE HOMES

Quiet for Decade, It Now Showers Towns With Ashes, While Lava Fires Mountain Forests.

By the Associated Press.
OTARU, Japan, June 17.—The volcano Komagatake, north of Hakodate, which has been quiet for a decade, erupted today, the lava flow firing forests on the mountainside. The ashes fell in nearby villages three to five inches in depth, inhabitants deserting their homes.

The eruption was accompanied by earth tremors. No casualties were reported but it was feared the damage was considerable.

By the Associated Press.
HAKODATE, Japan, June 17.—Fires originating from the lava flow of the volcano Komagatake destroyed the village of Ikusajawa on the Southern slope of the mountain. A train, which was waiting at the station, enabled the villagers to escape without casualties to Nanae, nine miles north of Hakodate.

Smoke clouds from the volcano enveloped Nanae tonight, even reaching Hakodate. Others reports said that the village of Hondetsu had been burned and that the larger village of Dori, on the Western slope of the volcano, was endangered by fires.

The last major eruption of Komagatake occurred in 1856, when the surrounding area was almost deforested.

At Least Six Killed in New Zealand Earthquake.
By the Associated Press.
WELLINGTON, NEW ZEALAND, June 17.—At least six persons were killed in an earthquake which rocked Northern New Zealand today. Four men were reported to have been killed by a heavy landslide which blocked the Westland River. Two other men were missing in the Westland district. Another man was killed at the fall Rock Cement Works.

A sharp earthquake was felt throughout New Zealand at 10:30 a. m. Several boys were injured by falling masonry, but none seriously.

Cracks appeared in the walls of numerous business houses in the center of Wellington. The post office at Westport was badly damaged. A pupil at one of the Westport schools was seriously injured when one of the towers toppled over. It was necessary to amputate one leg.

WASHINGTON, June 17.—Heavy earth tremors estimated by Director Tondorf of the Georgetown University to have been about 6900 miles from Washington, were recorded yesterday evening on the seismograph of the university. Starting at 6:07 o'clock the tremors lasted more than two hours with the heaviest quakes about 7 o'clock.

SUIT OVER PAINTING DISMISSED
Judge Acts on Demurrer Filed by Defendant.
A suit by Mrs. Janie M. Taylor, Kirkwood, against her cousin, Miss S. Frances Napton, 2639 Olive street, to obtain possession of an oil portrait of their ancestor, the late Gov. Shelby of Kentucky, was dismissed by Circuit Judge, Sale today.

The dismissal was on a demurrer filed by Miss Napton's lawyer, who held that Mrs. Taylor should have filed a replevin suit instead of an equity suit and should have filed a bond for the value of the picture. Mrs. Taylor's petition alleged that she owned the picture and had lent it to her cousin in 1924 when she moved temporarily into quarters where she did not have room for it.

KILLED IN PARACHUTE JUMP; NOTE FOR FORMER SWEETHEART

H. P. Gets, 24, Victim of Leap at Baltimore; Doubtful if Rip Cord Was Pulled.

BALTIMORE, Md., June 17.—
Herbert P. Gets, 24 years old, was killed yesterday in a parachute jump when the chute failed to open. He stepped from the plane at a height of 6000 feet. At the Steimels Airways Flying Field, where the jump was made, it was said there was doubt whether the rip cord which released the parachute had been pulled.

Gets left a letter, to be mailed today, to Mrs. Elsie Gardner, a former sweetheart, who was recently married. Coroner Reinhardt took charge of the letter.

Gets' mother said he had been dependent since Mrs. Gardner's marriage. The contents of the letter were not disclosed.

W. D. Gibbs Gets LL.D. Degree.
W. D. Gibbs, 325 Oleta drive, St.
Louis County, former vice president of the Federal Land Bank, today received from the University of New Hampshire, at Durham, the degree of Doctor of Laws, in recognition of his services as president of the university from 1922 to 1924. The degree of Doctor of Science was conferred upon him some years ago by the University of Maine for his invention of instruments for laboratory analysis of soils.

PURSUES WOMAN, KILLS HER AND HIMSELF

New Orleans Man Follows
Auto and Fires — Drink Blamed.

By The Associated Press.

NEW ORLEANS, June 17.—
Herbert Eden, 55 years old, manager of the New Orleans Industrial Canal, yesterday shot and killed
Mrs. Joseph Meyer, 24 years old, and then fatally wounded himself.
The shooting occurred on a suburban residential section street.

Police said, Eden, driving his own automobile, followed a machine in which Mrs. Meyer was riding with another woman and man until he was able to gain a position alongside their car. He was then reported to have shot the woman. He then turned the pistol on himself.

Police declared that while it had been found Eden had known Mrs.
Meyer for some time, they were unable to give a motive for the shooting. Ralph Russell, brother of the dead woman, said "too much drink caused it."

Mrs. Meyer's husband is in New York on a business trip.

Here's a new idea in Vacuum Cleaners. It eliminates extra attachments. Saves you the time and trouble of attaching and detaching special equipment for different jobs. Makes cleaning easier and quicker.

For no more than you would pay for any good vacuum cleaner with the necessary attachments you can get a Premier Duplex and Spic-Span or a Premier Junior and Spic-Span.

The Spic-Span is a little, light, handy cleaner that gets in the corners and hard-to-get-at places. You'll use it on the lighter jobs—for cleaning curtains and draperies, furniture upholstery, auto interiors and clothing. Premier Duplex or Premier Junior will do the heavier cleaning jobs.

You can buy the Premier Duplex and Spic-Span for $76.00 and the Premier Junior and Spic-Span for $50.50; $5 down and 12 months to pay the balance.

Edward Williams, Yellow Taxi Porter Succumbs to Injuries—17 in One Crash.

Edward Williams, 65 years old, a Negro, was injured fatally at noon yesterday when struck by an automobile at Tenth and State streets, East St. Louis. He died at St. Mary's Hospital of a fractured skull a short time later. The driver of the machine was R. J. Robertson, 1718 Hall street, East St. Louis. Williams was employed as porter for the Yellow Taxi Co. and lived at the company's offices at Tenth and State streets. An inquest will be held. Nine persons were injured in a collision between two automobiles at Twenty-third street and Iowa avenue, Granite City, shortly before noon yesterday. The machines contained 17 occupants, 10 of them children.

RISE OF PURCHASE VALUE OF DOLLAR CONTINUES

Wholesale Prices Last Month Showed Fall of One Per Cent, U. S. Report Says.

By the Associated Press. WASHINGTON, June 17.—The Bureau of Labor Statistics announced today that the rising purchasing value of the dollar with downward trend of wholesale prices continued in May, the latter declining 1 per cent from the April level.

The weighted index of wholesale prices for May stood at 95.8 compared with 96.3 for April and 95.6 for May, 1928. On the basis of these figures, the bureau placed the purchasing power of the dollar last month at 104.4 compared with 109 in May, 1928.

Farm products, notably grain, meat animals, cotton, hay and wool, continued to lead the decline, but of 35 commodities considered, only 82 showed increases while 175 decreased and 220 were unchanged.

GERMAN FIRM LOSES GLASS SUIT INVOLVING MILLIONS

Toledo Interests Acted "Fairly, Frankly and Generously," Federal Judge Holds.

By the Associated Press. TOLEDO, O., June 17.—The petition of the Europaischer Verband der Faschen Fabriken of Germany seeking damages amounting to millions of dollars from Toledo glass interests was dismissed in Federal court today by Judge George P. Hahn in one of the country's outstanding patent cases.

The German company filed suit in 1924 contending that American firms had violated an agreement which gave the German company exclusive patent rights in certain foreign trade territories. The agreement was made in Berlin in 1917. Judge Hahn held that the American companies "were not only frank and fair, but generous to the plaintiff and its predecessors."

The defendant companies were the Owens Bottle Co., Toledo Glass Co., Owens Bottle Machine Co., Libbey Owens Sheet Co. and individuals connected with the firms. Edmund D. Libbey, Michael J. Owens and Clarence Brown, three of the founders of the companies, and Federal Judge D. C. Weston, mayor of Cleveland who originally heard the case, have died since the litigation started.

Honorary Degree for Young.

By the Associated Press. CLINTON, N. Y., June 17.—Owen D. Young, chairman of the recent Reparations Commission, today was awarded an honorary degree of Dr. of Laws by Hamilton College.

Just Out! The New Agitator Model EASY Washer

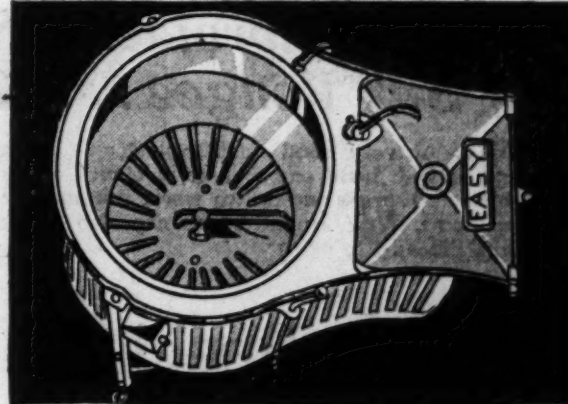

At an Extraordinarily Low Price...
Equipped With the Popular Damp Dryer

An effective new washing principle in agitator type washers has been developed by Easy engineers. The bottom of this new Easy Agitator has washboard corrugations. As the clothes pass over these corrugations in a special movement, vacuums are created. This produces suction, flushing soap and water through the clothes.
Thus the mesh of the cloth is thoroughly cleansed while the agitator fin washes the surface.

AMAZING WASHING SPEED is obtained by this new method... without harmful shortcut methods! An 8-pound washing capacity, two pounds more than the average washer. Controls are simpler and fewer than those on any wringer type.

Let us demonstrate one of these Washers in your home... without obligation to you. Phone Garfield 5900, Station 641.

The Damp Dryer is an invaluable time and strength saver—women who have used it would never go back to the old method. Besides there is no breaking of buttons—it dries the heavy, bulky pieces, too, that never would go through a wringer.

Yam Toy

Victor in First Race
Pays $19 and Pl
Horse Refunds

By Melvin D. Falcher

The Post-Dispatch Sport Staff. FAIRMOUNT PARK, June 17. The fifty race this afternoon at the Tower Grove Race at mile and 70 yards, went to the Herdase Stock Farm's Yam Toy, which raced Herade into the lead and assumed the lead at the turn to beat Lane Allen, the odds-on choice, and Sun God II in the big end of the purse. Herade dashed away from the barrier and opened up a long lead. He was challenged by Yam Toy, the far turn, however, and the water cut sharply, causing Herade to take back. At the time Herade was stopping. From there on Yam Toy held Lane Allen off without much trouble and held his backers $13.10 for a $2 mutual ticket. About 4500 persons saw the race.

Coming from behind in the stretch Gotta Go Now, paying $13.60, won the first race over Pink Blossom and Patsy Lewis. Nita, Valinda and Money Order showed the most early speed but all tired in the stretch. Dorothy was shut off several times during the running. It was an ordinary field of 2-year-olds and the time was slow. The second and third horses, as well as the winner, paid good prices. Pink Blossom paying $29.60 a place.

Blossoms Takes Second. The second race went to Blossom from the stable trained by Gentry. Second choice in the betting with Major Johnson, which ran away on the morning of her last start, was rattled off the early pace and called in the stretch, where she held quite easily to hold the other two. Graceland, a long shot, was second, and Major Johnson third.

The race was for maiden three year olds and upwards and had attracted a big field. Flag Bearer showed some speed but stopped early in the stretch. The winner paid $5.90. Ocean Current. Finally Wins. After most Fairmount race goes to become weary of betting on Ocean Current, the old Ben King, who ran a good race to win the event, which was over a long time, handily, over Billy Doran and Platte Boy. Revolver and Doran alternated in pace-making but the former tired badly. In the stretch Ocean Current moved up stoutly and after a short fire, passed Billy Doran, to win the race. Forester and Postscript were practically left at the post.

The winner's price was $9. Crister Takes Fourth. Crister gained a rather lucky story when she scored over a field of 2-year-olds in the fourth. Outrun in the early stages, rider, M. Meyer, took advantage of the opening left when Ruth Long carried Keshan out at the start of the stretch, and the filly was the race in a hard drive with Ruth Long. Keshan set the early pace but was joined by Ruth Long, and the two raced head and head for the stretch turn. It was Ruth Long who carried the colt wide, practically eliminating Ruth Long from further contention. They appeared to have the race between themselves when this occurred. Vicksburg, played down considerably, was the third horse in the race.

A $2 ticket on Crister brought back $18.60.

while I do not pretend to be a scholar of the game, I have a fair share of brains. Yes, if I have a fair share of brains, I hope they will be of use to me in the fight in the style I've fought.

I grin, somewhat sadly, at the thought of those who regard me as another dumb fighter. Oh, the "German Dempsey" will be next to learn personally that "dumb fighter" is all wrong!

As I size up Schmeling, I find a very good right-hand punch, full of knockout possibilities. It lands on anything but a jaw or concrete chin or sheet body. Max has a fast left, and is coming rapidly to his prime and is naturally affable in the hope of fighting his way to world championship. These are chief assets.

On the other hand, I find Schmeling is rugged enough to stand up under a persistent powerful body attack by an opponent who can keep on coming, pounding his arms, taking what comes necessary, and blading with both fists when inside the stand-off jab.

DAYTON POLOISTS
16, ST. LOUIS 13,
IN SECOND GAME

First Half Marked by Spectacular Attack of Improved Redbirds, Who Hold Opponents Even.

LOCAL PONY KICKS
GOAL FOR VISITORS
Miami Valley Players Ride Out Victory in Final Chukker—Howard, Their No. 4, Makes Six Scores.

An irresistible force collided with an immovable obstacle yesterday on the St. Louis Country Club polo field. The reverberations were an unbroken series of thrills, an interesting contribution to what used to be called "philosophy" and some of the finest polo ever played in St. Louis.

For four cyclonic chukkers the St. Louis club's Redbirds swept irresistibly on to a score of 13-5. The Miami Valley Hunt and Polo Club team of Dayton, O., came back for the last half with an immovable defense. St. Louis scored not once in the four periods, while the Dayton team did some moving that won the game for the visitors, 16-13.

The attack that seemed irresistible and the defense that was impregnable did not, however, account for all the scores. St. Louis started with the advantage of an eight-goal handicap under ratings of the American Polo Association. The last goal for Dayton, when St. Louis men and mounts were straining to tie the score, was kicked by the pony of a St. Louis player.

St. Louis players came back with an improved teamwork and a determination to win, after Saturday's defeat by one goal, that made the first half, veterans said, as fine as any polo ever seen on any field. Streaking runs the length of the field and lightning-like turns attested to a finer spirit than less than a former turf. The brilliant sun that made the first game a form of endurance test drilled through yesterday's clouds less ardently, and a grateful breeze was steady from the South.

Game Spectacular
St. Louisans who chose this day to see big-time polo were in luck in comfortable weather as well as a game spectacular above the average. Several hundred paid admission and watched from their automobiles on the south and east sides of the field, but it was noted that feminine attention, even in the most exciting moments of play, could not be altogether distracted from summy colors that brightened the line of 200 or so watching from the terrace reserved for club members.

Wallace had scarcely shot the first goal for St. Louis on a rather long and wholly difficult stroke from the side when the spectators were saying: "This is going to be different. Look how the St. Louis men are lined out—and look how they're riding!"

St. Louis players were lined out in position for every play and they were riding. Spectacular attacks by the forwards, Simmons, Love and Wallace, were matched by spectacular defense by the No. 4, Niedringhaus, and once in the second chukker, No. 4 ran the ball down the field and a perfect three-way pass, Niedringhaus to Wallace to Simmons, scored for St. Louis.

The Redbirds' co-ordination and speed were thrilling to see, but no more than a match for the formidable and well-mounted Dayton men. The visitors moved with the ease and effectiveness of a single unit, and every man seemed as dangerous in attack as he was unfailing in defense. Dayton's back or No. 4, Howell Howard, topped the offensive record for both sides with six goals to his credit.

pony kicked the final score for Dayton.
The Bluebirds will play Kansas City Country Club here Saturday and Sunday.
The skill and judgment of older players stood out in the second game—yesterday, a lively four-chukker tussle in which the Bluebirds of St. Louis Country Club defeated the American Polo Club of St. Louis by the narrow margin of 4-3.
Applause was especially enthusiastic for the veterans, George Simmons and Eugene Williams, who alternated at No. 4 for the Bluebirds. The American Polo Club's men, at positions in the order named, were John C. Roberts Jr., Barney Benson, Jack Krey and Jules Van Raalte, and the youngsters of the Bluebirds were William B. Gellra, George Niedringhaus Jr. and Clinton Whittemore Jr.

The lineup for the first game: Miami Valley, St. Louis Country Club, No. 1, P. C. Simmons II, No. 2, E. C. Love Jr., No. 3, E. C. Love Jr., No. 4, E. C. Love Jr., No. 5, E. C. Love Jr., No. 6, E. C. RUSSIA PROPOSES MAIL LINE TO INDIA
If England Consents Will Extend Tashkent-Kabul Route.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
MOSCOW, June 17.—A passenger and mail air line to India is planned by the Soviet Government. P. I. Baranov, Chief of the Military Aviation Division of the War Commissariat, announces.
The route will be an extension of the present Tashkent-Kabul Line, opened last year, upon which service has been temporarily suspended because of Civil War in Afghanistan.
If the consent of the British-Indian Government is obtained, the line will make it possible to fly from Berlin to India, by way of the Soviet Union in five days.
Baranov, reviewing the strides of civil aviation in the Soviet Union in the last few years, said that 9000 miles were flown regularly every day by Soviet pilots. The longest extension of the passenger service this year is the line from Moscow to Irkutsk, Siberia.
Dibenko, commander of the Middle Asiatic Military District, reported that 15 delegates to the Congress of Soviets were carried to Moscow in airplanes from the Pamir Plateau in Central Asia. The trip was made in three days, whereas by the land route by caravan and train, the journey takes 17 days.

Frozen Cameras Baked In Oven to Keep Them Working in Byrd's Camp

Despite Bending of Parts, Frosted Lenses,
Breaking Film and Blistered Fingers, Movie
Record Is Being Made of Antarctic Night.

By RUSSELL OWEN.

(Copyright, 1929, by the New York Times.)

This story is published exclusively in the St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

LITTLE AMERICA, Antarctica, June 12 (Delayed)—The unnaturally warm weather of the last few days was followed yesterday by so much moisture that ice and frost crystals formed on every outdoor structure in the Byrd expedition's camp. Wires became glittering and fairly-like ropes in the light of a flare, even the radio towers and skis standing in the snow were rimmed with delicate frost flowers.

Some of these things were so beautiful that they were photographed by flashlight, and some wonderful pictures were made to show what pranks the frost giants can play down here when they are in an impenetrable mood.

It was too good an opportunity for the moving picture men to overlook, and they brought out flares which lighted up the entire camp and the radio towers and antennae and made a record of these shining lines against the dark background of the Antarctic night.

One long antenna, just above the ground, looked like a four-inch silver cable, so long were the crystals.

It was 11 degrees above zero yesterday when this phenomenon took place, but today it is below again and clear, for which we are all thankful. It is good once more to see the stars and the faint northern twilight in the morning after many days of gloom and complete darkness.

Now the moving pictures are being made of other outdoor scenes and soon there will be flares shining down on the bay ice, as if witch-fires were glowing there, throwing grotesque shadows among the uplifted crabs.

Trouble With Cameras. Joe Rucker and Willard Van der Veer, the Paramount men, have had trouble with their moving picture cameras, for film snaps and cameras jam in periods of intense cold, and frequently they have to come in and thaw themselves out before making another attempt to get a picture. But they are slowly obtaining a night record of life and scenes in the Antarctic.

One who attempts to operate a camera or theodolite or other instrument in the Antarctic must be prepared for many vexations. Moving picture cameras, due to contraction from the cold, moisture condenses between the lenses and fingers are burned until the tips appear to have been repeatedly seared by flames.

The first breath of the Antarctic in the ice pack gave an intimation of what was coming. The moving picture cameras began to get stiff and were taken apart and the oil washed out with gasoline.

As the ship got farther south, the photographers lugged their cameras below and with many impromptu disassemblies they were refitted the moving parts. This binding was due to the same cause.

The still cameras began to get stiff and were taken apart and the oil washed out with gasoline.

"TERMINABLE PERMITS" NOT IN CITY'S FIRST TRANSIT PLAN

In 1927 Legislature Was Told Only Increased Taxing Power Was Needed to Carry Out Rapid Transit Program.

By BOYD F. CARROLL.

JEFFERSON CITY, June 17.—The argument of sponsors of the terminable permit bill that the measure is essential to carrying out the proposed rapid transit program in St. Louis—which program is authorized and fully covered in a separate and distinct rapid transit enabling act—was not even mentioned or considered in rapid transit discussions when representatives of the city first applied to the Legislature in 1927 for a rapid transit enabling bill that was almost identical in its provisions with the true transit enabling act passed by the 1929 Legislature.

Search of the files on discussion of the rapid transit enabling bill before the 1927 Legislature discloses that terminable permit legislation was not even mentioned in connection with the rapid transit bill, and had no part in the rapid transit program.

Supporters of the rapid transit measure in the 1927 Legislature introduced the terminable permit act and declared it was complete and created all of the necessary powers for the city to construct, maintain and operate a rapid transit system.

The bill called for final passage in the 1927 Legislature after passage by the House, when it was caught in a jam of bills on the Senate calendar and was not reached for consideration before adjournment.

Muehch Favored Bill. The 1927 bill, almost an exact copy of the rapid transit enabling act passed by the 1929 Legislature, was introduced by Representative O. J. Papke of St. Louis, at the request of City Counselor J. T. Muehch and other city officials and groups. The 1929 rapid transit enabling act is a copy of the rapid transit bill introduced in the 1927 Legislature, with three exceptions, and one of the exceptions was the result of an amendment offered in 1927 by an opponent of the bill.

In preparing the 1929 bill, City Counselor made one change in the section of the 1927 bill relating to special assessments upon property to pay costs of constructing the rapid transit system. The 1927 bill provided that the cost could be paid "in whole or in part" by such assessments. The section was altered in the 1929 bill to make this phrase read "in part."

When the 1927 bill was before the House, Representative Heege of St. Louis County obtained adoption of an amendment writing in a new section, providing that the act could not be construed to give the city power to condemn property, or assessments, upon any property outside the corporate limits. This was not in the bill introduced in the 1927 Legislature.

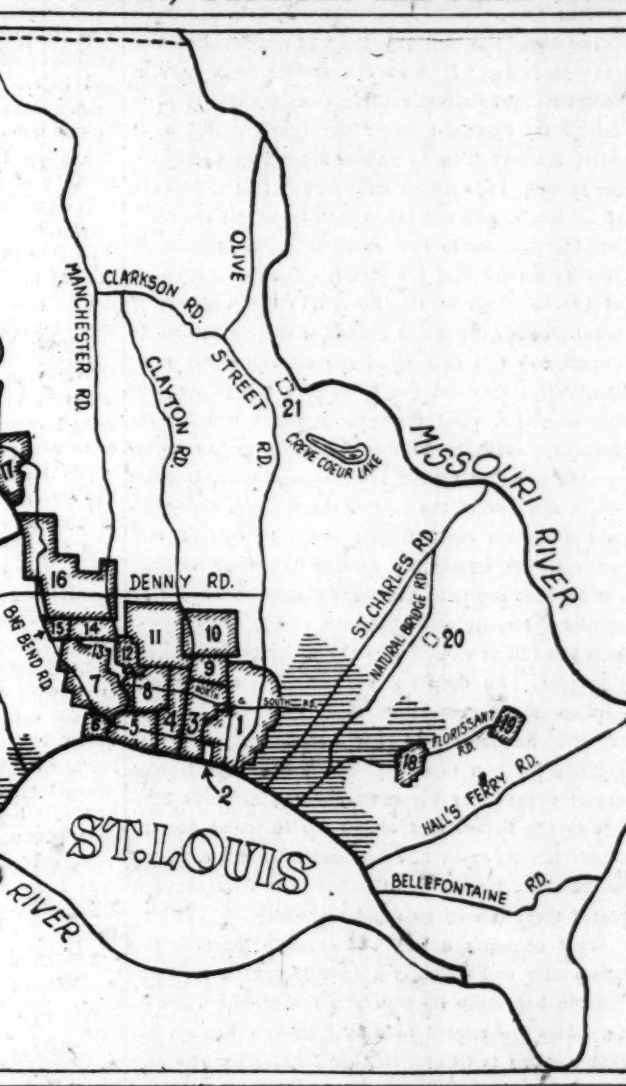

Clause on Invalidity. The 1929 bill contains one section, declaring that if the courts find any provision of the act unconstitutional, it shall be presumed that the Legislature would have passed the act without the invalid provision, and that the entire act shall not be held invalid because one or more sections are found unconstitutional. This section, considered surplusage by most legislators, was not in the 1927 bill.

With these exceptions, the 1929 act is a copy of the 1927 bill.

The rapid transit enabling act passed in 1929 contains no reference to terminable permits and specifically authorizes the city to carry on the development of a rapid transit system, and to pay the cost, in part by special assessments of property, or, in whole or in part, by issuance of municipal bonds. The bill clearly provides that the city, by the methods, shall do all of the financing of such a project. Once built the city may operate the system or lease it to an operating company, as it chooses.

The terminable permit bill, which now is declared by its supporters to be an essential part of

AMERICA'S AMBASSADORS TO ENGLAND. By Beckles Willson.

WHAT these studies demonstrate is that no matter from what race the representative American springs, his culture is English and that although the ambassador may be a drop of Scotch blood, when he lands on English soil he is, in the larger sense, at home.

So writes he, the author of "Our Ambassadors to England," a book which is a masterpiece of literary craftsmanship. The book is a collection of studies of the lives of the American ambassadors to England, from the first, John Jay, to the present, Charles D. Wick.

These studies are not only a masterpiece of literary craftsmanship, but they are also a masterpiece of historical research. The author has gathered together a vast amount of material, and has woven it into a narrative which is both interesting and instructive.

1000 GAIN IN WEEK'S OPERA ATTENDANCE

41,000 See "The Student Prince" in Park — "Wildflower" Opens Tonight.

Forty-one thousand persons witnessed the seven performances of "The Student Prince" at the Municipal Theater last week, the management estimated today. Although Wednesday's performance was canceled because of rain, the attendance exceeded 1000 that of the previous week when seven performances of "The Love Call" were given.

The third week's attraction, opening tonight, will be "Wildflower," an operetta new to the St. Louis stage. It was played in St. Louis in 1924 at the Shubert-Jefferson Theater.

Block reservations have been made for tonight for 350 foreign representatives of the Missouri State Life Insurance Co. 200 delegates to the International Lions convention at Louisville, Ky., passing through St. Louis, and 65 members of the Personnel and Production Executive Club. Tomorrow night 200 members of the National Leather and Shoe Finders' Association will attend and on Thursday night Stix, Baer & Fuller will be host to 100 persons.

NICK LUCAS AND HIS GUITAR

HEAD ST. LOUIS THEATER BILL

Carl Freed and His Band Also Please; William Boyd in Film "High Voltage."

The St. Louis Theater has gone back to normalcy this week, Meyer Friedman's orchestra is in the pit instead of on the stage and the mechanical signs have replaced the master of ceremonies in announcing the turns. Each act has its separate setting instead of being shown against the background of a jazz band, which rather tended to blur individuality.

Nick Lucas with his marcel and his guitar croons his way into the good graces of the audience with no trouble at all. His phonograph admirers keep him busy answering calls for old favorites and dancing sketches. "Oh, May" in which they have been seen before, Mayris Chaney and Edward Fox, with a pianist and a rubber boy open the bill with an agile dance number.

The film, "High Voltage," in which William Boyd wears a white shirt and a dark tie, is a somebody ought to be electrocuted for it.

Former St. Louisian Dies. Special to the Post-Dispatch.

BUCHANAN, Mich., June 17.—Hiram John Van Antwerp, 77 years old, for 49 years a resident of Berrien County, fell dead Saturday at his home near here. He formerly resided in St. Louis, Mo. In the seventies and eighties he was a teacher and surveyor in Kansas, Nebraska and western Missouri, and many of the larger cattle ranches in those states were surveyed by him.

Optimists to Visit St. Louis. Representatives of Optimist Clubs of Washington, Chicago and Louisville will stop in St. Louis tomorrow for several hours on their way to a convention at Tulsa, Ok. They will arrive here in the forenoon and depart at 5:30 in the afternoon.

New York Day by Day

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, June 14. Early to watch a liner dock and to the home of a Scotsman where they served haggis which I did not enjoy and Dean Palmer called and told merry tales of his travels with Irvin Cobb and Will Hogg in South America.

In the afternoon to St. Thomas to the christening of Clara and Lorraine Manville Gould's pretty daughter and walked with my wife about the gravel path in Central Park and we saw a horse fling a rider but he landed on his feet and was back neatly in his saddle in a performance of "The Love Call" were given.

Took dinner with Keats and Florence Speed and some others and listened to Vincent Lopez play melodies on the harpsichord. Home fairly belated and to bed but could not sleep so up and sat at my window watching the skies and wondering where we will all be 100 years hence.

IT IS perhaps a hoary one but there is a story of a slightly bloated hotel patron lurking up to a hotel desk to request a room on the second floor. "But we just asked you a room on the third floor," said the clerk. "That's the trouble," was the reply. "I just fell out of it."

DOO-DOO among Long Islanders this summer is the old fashioned hayride and picnic in the moonlight. Hawaiian musicians, strum romantic arias. The picknickers start singing and dancing at midnight and return after sun up.

NOT all chorus girls arrive via small town beauty contests. Forty-three on the boards this summer were graduated from smart finishing schools. Ten were using earnings to study voice culture and 15 are saving to study abroad. Out of 45, 35 never touched liquor and 21 do not smoke.

ONE of the roly poly Broadway boys who measures the same all around bounded into a night club the other evening and requested checks for everybody in the place. He didn't have to ask twice and the total was $1134 which he paid and went on his way.

CATHOLIC SCHOOL GRADUATION

Graduation exercises of the Rosati-Kain Catholic Girls' High School were held yesterday afternoon at the New Cathedral. Archbishop Glavin awarded diplomas to 150 students, 119 in general and 31 in commercial courses. Miss Carey also won the medal offered by the Knights of Columbus to the student obtaining the best grades in American history.

Memorial to Leo Rassieur. A memorial rose bush in honor of Leo Rassieur was planted in the Rosati-Kain lot in Bellefontaine Cemetery Friday by members of Alice Cary R. ley Ten No. 12, Daughters of Union Veterans of the Civil War.

tions. This is most serious in those States (like Missouri) where the county is the sole unit of rural local government. The testimony from the few places where city-county consolidation has taken place is generally to the effect that great savings have been accomplished by it. Second, the people of the city rarely take any interest in the government of their county. The results, where the city contains the major portion of the population, are always unfortunate and sometimes scandalous.

City-County Plans Fail.
"For many years the energies of municipal reformers were directed to securing city and county separation as the solution of the difficulties. These efforts, however, met with a depressing succession of failures. Sometimes it was the people of the rural part of the county who blocked county division. Sometimes it was the county politicians, more strongly entrenched than any other political group, who defeated proposals for reform."

In his talks here, Reed has declared that it would be financial folly for St. Louis to annex the whole county, because it could not extend municipal services throughout the rural area, nor would it do, he said, to annex the built-up suburban fringe and leave the rest of the county to shift for itself with inadequate finances. As a possible solution of the dilemma it has occurred to him that co-ordinated belts of urban, suburban and rural government might be devised.

"In recent years," Reed concludes in his book, "we have begun to question the universal applicability of the formula of city and county separation. Take Detroit out of Wayne County, for example, and there would be left only an extensive and impoverished rump which could with difficulty provide the services now demanded of a rural local government. These are no longer limited to the care of a few gravel roads and some nondescript provision for the poor and sick. They are so numerous and in the aggregate so costly that the town and township have been proved wholly inadequate and are on the road to extinction."

Readjustment Needed.

"The county is the smallest possible unit for rural local government in the United States today, and there is a reason for the argument that it needs the support of the cities within it. Indeed, the facts now seem to require a complete readjustment of the areas of local government to a scientific distribution of the burden of their essential services. Here, too, it may be, will be found the real solution of the metropolitan problem. The development of such a scheme is, however, another story and for another book."

Turning to a paper by Reed, published in the National Municipal Review in 1925, there may be found a development of his idea for the "region," a unit varying in size to meet local conditions, centering on a large, urban community and including the territory socially and economically dependent upon that community. The definition is applicable to St. Louis and the county. The region would be capable of handling, Reed wrote:

1. Planning, including zoning and preservation of suitable forest and shore reservations; 2. Transportation, including street railways, business, and rapid transit lines; 3. Traffic, including highway construction and maintenance; 4. Water supply and electrical energy; 5. Drainage; 6. Certain aspects of police, health and charity administration."

Suggests Council Rule.

Such a unit, Reed continued, could be effectively governed by a council, say of nine members, elected at large by the system of proportional representation, which would give minorities a vote but "minimize the evil of multiplied local elections." State aid in financing such things as education and highway construction need not be excluded, but the profit of such a unit would be direct benefit to the whole region. Within the region the relations of city and county can be readjusted without hardship.

Creation of a region, the article added, would avoid the antagonism of annexation and make possible the fulfillment of regional development schemes, such as those being considered here by the Regional Planning Federation. Referring to Reed's book, he says there:

"The causes of urban growth operate quite independently of the political boundaries of cities. State and even national boundary lines have proved no very serious bar to the spread of city populations. While there has been a general tendency for growing cities to expand their area of their governmental authority by annexation, this process always proceeds intermittently. In some cities does not proceed at all, and almost always lags behind the physical expansion of the community. Indeed, it appears as if, in the case of many of our largest cities, there is no hope of annexation even approximately catching up with population."

THE CITY AND ITS AREA.
"The city, therefore, in the sense of a body of people centered on the port, the stream, the railroad junction on which its economic prosperity depends, is often a very different thing from the municipal corporation which gives its name to the aggregation. The existence of a metropolitan area, distinct from the city politically but joined to it physically, economically, and to a certain extent socially, is characteristic of most of the world's great urban centers."

No legislative body or Federal bureau can place a proper valuation on the great railroad systems of this country by simply appraising their tangible value
—the net worth of their physical properties, their rights of way, and equipment.
Behind every successful business or industry in America there is that great essential, organized brain power and experience, which cannot be produced or replaced overnight—which are just as surely an asset to the carriers as their cars and engines, stations and roadbeds.

The L. & N. is fortunate in being in possession of both of these assets to an unusual degree—physical properties built up through nearly 80 years of constant development, and an organization of trained and experienced employees, nearly 50,000 strong. The road and its personnel have "grown up" together, many of the employees representing two or more generations of service.
Their uniform cooperation and courteous service have gained for the road the name of "The Old Reliable," and the tremendous buying power of their $75,000,000 yearly wages constitutes one of the strongest factors contributing to the prosperity of the South through which the L. & N. operates.

When you make use of America's great transportation systems (finest in all the world) remember that their efficiency has been attained as much through organized brain power and experience as through modern cars, engines, and rails.

OLD TIME LOAF CAKE AGAIN IN FAVOR

Varieties That Grandmother Pried Herself on Making Are Featured.

This summer has seen the comeback of the old-fashioned loaf cakes such as pound cake, marble cake, silver and spice cakes.

One reason for their return to favor is that they are tasty, they do not get stale within a reasonable length of time, and they are nice to serve with iced beverages such as grape juice, fruit drinks and ginger ale.

A tried and trusted recipe for marble cake calls for one-half cup shortening, one and one-half cups sugar, one cup cold water, three cups sifted pastry flour, one-half teaspoon salt, four teaspoons baking powder, three egg whites and one square, or one ounce, chocolate.

Cream shortening; add sugar and cream again. Add one-third cup water and one cup flour alternately, beat three minutes. Repeat. Add salt and baking powder to remaining cup of flour. Add last one-third cup water to cake mixture; fold in last cup flour with salt and baking powder. Beat egg whites until stiff; cut and fold in.

Put one-third batter in separate bowl; fold in melted chocolate. Pour batter in pan, putting two tablespoons light mixture alternately with one tablespoon dark mixture. Bake in moderate oven 45 minutes; if in loaf, in a moderately hot oven 25 minutes.

Gold Cake.

A delicious gold cake may be made with one-fourth cup butter, three-fourths cup sugar, five egg yolks, one-fourth cup milk or water, one and one-fourth cups pastry flour, one teaspoon baking powder, one-half teaspoon orange juice and one-half teaspoon lemon juice.

Cream butter, add sugar gradually and cream again. Add beaten egg yolks one at a time, beating thoroughly after each addition. Add milk or water and mix well. Fold in flour, which has been sifted with baking powder. Add flavoring.

Bake in a loaf in a moderate oven 45 to 50 minutes; in layers in a hot oven 25 to 30 minutes; in cup cakes in a hot oven 20 minutes.

Clare Cake.

One-half cup butter, one cup brown sugar, three-quarters cup chopped raisins, two eggs, one-quarter cup sweet milk, one-half cup flour, one-half teaspoon soda, one teaspoon ground cloves. Cream butter and sugar, drop the eggs in (not beaten), add milk, then part of the flour, then the fruit and the soda and rest of the flour. Bake in loaf tin, in moderate oven 35 minutes.

BRAN DAINTIES ARE GOOD

Extremely Simple to Prepare And Very Inexpensive and Wholesome.

Brans dainties which are tempting little tidbits are made with oyster crackers dipped in melted sweet chocolate and then rolled in toasted bran.

A nice batch may be made with 24 oyster crackers, one-fourth pound sweet chocolate and three-fourths cup bran.

Toast bran by placing it on a cookie sheet and putting in a hot oven for five minutes.

Melt chocolate over hot water. Dip oyster crackers in melted chocolate and roll in toasted bran.

SPAGHETTI DE LUXE

The Simplest Way of Preparing This Product Is the Best.

Cut into a saucpan a few slices of bacon, a medium-sized onion, chopped fine, a very little garlic, some diced fresh mushrooms, and fry slowly until light brown.

Then pour in a can of tomato puree, seasoned with salt and pepper, and cook slowly for half an hour. Add a little parsley and one leaf of chopped basil.

In the meantime, boil a package of spaghetti for about 15 minutes, drain, put in a deep dish and pour sauce over, sprinkle top with grated cheese and serve hot.

Ironing Board Cover.

Select a smooth board of suitable dimensions and cover with white table oilcloth. Stretch it tightly and hold in place with small tacks. You will find it easily kept clean and in every way satisfactory.

EAT RAW VEGETABLES AND BE UP-TO-DATE

The Vogue for Eating Raw Vegetables Is Becoming Contagious.

This is the time of year when the housewife desires to try new recipes. Probably there are more new raw vegetable salads than new kinds of any other type dish. Scarcely a week passes that some new combination of raw vegetable salad does not reach the Post-Dispatch Home Economics Department. The best part about them is that most raw vegetable salads are economical dishes.

I wouldn't try to make vegetable salads without the use of the middle size grater. When we say in our recipes, "grate carrots" we do not mean to use the finest mesh grater which draws so much juice from the carrot, but we mean to use that medium size which still-ers it.

These pieces are large enough to keep their juice; they are thin enough to eat with pleasure and they are crisp enough to be delightful.

Here are particularly nice raw vegetable salads:

Cole Slaw.
One-half cup green onions; two cups cabbage, half cup red or green peppers.
Chop green onions and peppers finely and shred cabbage. Toss all together lightly and serve with honey and lemon dressing.

Onion Salad.
Slice Spanish onions very thin and put into a salad bowl with alternate layers of water cress and mayonnaise. Garnish with slices of hard-boiled egg. Serve ice cold.

Another Carrot Salad.
Mix grated carrots, apples, celery and nuts. Moisten with mayonnaise and serve on lettuce.

RHODES SCHOLARS TO HOLD FIRST REUNION IN ENGLAND

Prince of Wales to Attend Dinner in Their Honor; 100 American on Way.

NEW YORK, June 17.—A party of 100 former Rhodes scholars will leave tonight for Quebec, where they will sail for England on the steamship Empress of Scotland for the first reunion at Oxford University by Rhodes scholars from all parts of the world.

The opening of Rhodes House in Oxford July 4 will mark the twenty-fifth anniversary of the first American Rhodes scholarship. Three college presidents will accompany the party, Frank Ayndotte of Swarthmore and American secretary to the Rhodes trustees; Frank P. Day, Union, and O. C. Carmichael, Alabama. Helena Taft Manning, dean of Bryn Mawr college, also will accompany the party.

At a dinner given by the Rhodes trustees for the alumni Stanley Baldwin will preside and the Prince of Wales will be a guest. The guests will also attend a garden party given by Lord and Lady Astor at Cliveden, a reception by the Government at Westminster Hall, London, and a special Sunday service at which the Archbishop of Canterbury will preach.

FARMER OUT $1 FOR EVERY DIME GAINED BY TARIFF

Higher rates on soy bean oil would do more harm than good. It was likewise learned that corn belt representatives were wrong in believing a higher rate on blackstrap molasses would help the corn farmer. The only result, it was predicted, would be higher prices for alcohol and alcohol products.

An increase of the rate on secured wool from 31 to 34 cents per pound would help wool growers, but it would increase the burden of consumers, including farmers, the investigators said.

Wool Tariff Benefits. "Under the present wool tariff," the report stated, "6.3 per cent of the farmers are getting an annual average benefit of $43,000,000. Under the higher rate they will probably get $47,000,000, a total additional benefit of $4,000,000."

"It is generally estimated that the original cost of the wool tariff is pyramided until it costs the ultimate consumers over $300,000,000. But we do not find this total markup has been effective. In the present period of depression of the woolen industry many manufacturers have been unable to pay the usual dividends or even at times to cover costs. The consumption of men's woolen clothing has fallen off since 1925 on account of high prices of garments. Lower-priced woolen garments had to be made, with some reduction in quality. Substitutes for wool, especially in women's wear, have been found."

Flaxseed is held to be one farm product on which higher duties will be helpful to farmers. The proposed increase, it was said, should yield the producers an additional $5,000,000, or double the present benefit. This benefit would go chiefly to farmers in North Dakota, Minnesota, South Dakota and Montana. The cost would be borne directly by 32 flaxseed oil mills and indirectly by the consuming public.

"While the proposed increase in the tariff is arousing both Canada and Argentina," says the report, "it is a case in which the increased duty would be of benefit to the flax farmer. This benefit would be balanced by the increased cost to themselves and all other farmers who bought paints, varnishes, linoleum, oil cloth, patent and imitation leather, printers' ink, putty."

REDUCES ERIC CANAL SERVICE

Munson Company Suspends Operation of Several Fleets.

NEW YORK, June 17.—The Munson Inland Water Lines, Inc., announces that "because of decreased grain traffic on the Erie barge canal and a recent reduction in railroad grain rates, operation of several of its canal fleets has been suspended."

"This company feels," the announcement says, "that the present existing available rates on wheat from Buffalo to the seaboard does not justify it in attempting to engage in continued operation at a loss."

Bolled Beef. Take one teaspoon salt, one-fourth teaspoon pepper, two tablespoons flour, one pound lean beef cut into small pieces, two tablespoons drippings, one onion and two cups water. Roll meat in flour, to which seasonings have been added. Place oil or drippings in kettle and when hot but not smoking sear meat to a golden brown. Add onion and boiling water. Let boil for five minutes, cover and cook slowly for 45 minutes to one hour, or until tender.

REDUCES ERIC CANAL SERVICE

Munson Company Suspends Operation of Several Fleets.

NEW YORK, June 17.—The Munson Inland Water Lines, Inc., announces that "because of decreased grain traffic on the Erie barge canal and a recent reduction in railroad grain rates, operation of several of its canal fleets has been suspended."

"This company feels," the announcement says, "that the present existing available rates on wheat from Buffalo to the seaboard does not justify it in attempting to engage in continued operation at a loss."

Bolled Beef. Take one teaspoon salt, one-fourth teaspoon pepper, two tablespoons flour, one pound lean beef cut into small pieces, two tablespoons drippings, one onion and two cups water. Roll meat in flour, to which seasonings have been added. Place oil or drippings in kettle and when hot but not smoking sear meat to a golden brown. Add onion and boiling water. Let boil for five minutes, cover and cook slowly for 45 minutes to one hour, or until tender.

How to Guide A Little Child

By Agnes Lyne

Obedience

BEST mothers go through the day telling their children to come here, do this, do that. They expect their commands to be automatically obeyed and are too absorbed in their own tasks to explain the reasons for the orders they give or to make them interesting.

Peter was an active, intelligent youngster. His waking hours were filled with his own intense interest. His mother was worn out trying to make him obey, and looked forward to the day when he would go to school where, as she said a little grimly, he would be made to mind. Peter was just the eager and affectionate sort of youngster who should have been easy to control. Why did his mother find him so difficult?

Peter's mother, like so many other devoted mothers, never took time to see her commands from the child's point of view.

The simple order to wash your hands for dinner cannot be expected to impress you when you are engineer of a train that is half way between New York and Chicago and you are just stopping to take on more coal. Nor are you favorably disposed to obey the command to put back into the closet those brooms that are a team of horses. Quite naturally you ask, "Why?" only to be sharply told, "Because I say so, that's why." No wonder Peter's mother can't do a thing with him.

It would be so easy to win Peter's cheerful compliance. With a little tact and thought his mother could make him feel some interest in the fact that dinner was almost ready and that, if he kept it waiting, it would not only be cold, but they would be late getting started for the playground. It would be no great effort to tell him that using the brooms as horses would spoil them so that they would not sweep clean any more and that there were a couple of old mop sticks he could use just as well.

Until obedience has become a habit, commands should be made interesting to the child and the reasons for them explained from his point of view.

Moths Don't Like It

IF you have no cedar chest nor moth-proof bags to pack the porters, draperies and cushions, use newspapers for wrapping. Moths have a strong dislike for printer's ink.

Make sure the articles to be packed are thoroughly clean before you wrap them. Use newspapers plentifully and see that there is no opening anywhere. Secure by tying or use gummed paper to seal the parcel.

A few whole cloves or gum camphor placed in each parcel will further insure complete protection to the article packed.

White Coral

White coral beads are notable among new necklaces and chokers of distinctly summer persuasion. These beads do not have the cut associated with genuine or simulated coral but rather show a kinship with pearls. In graduated strands they are more attractive with summerish dresses than pearls.

Marking Clothes

College girls and people who travel a great deal require some sort of identification marks on their underwear and linens. They may be marked by the owner and then the marks can be kept small and put in obscure places. Dip the cloth to be marked into cold starch and then press with a hot iron. This will give a smooth, stiff surface, that can be written upon readily, using pen and indelible ink.

Meditations OF A Married Woman

By Helen Rowland.

MIXED GRILL

After all, a husband is the only authentic diploma in the school of love. And every girl wants at least ONE diploma.

A man never knows that a woman values his love above rubies until she sees for alienation of his affections at the price of diamonds.

Why spend so much time and energy trying to make cows contented when meals from contented cows, kisses from contented husbands and home run by contented wives are so much more vital to the nation's welfare?

Loyalty is the mark of an orientated soul—loyalty to your ideals, to your job, to your friends, to yourself and to the man or woman you love.

A girl always has an intuition when she is going to be kissed; but, sometimes, her intuition proves false alarm and the shock to her vanity is something devastating.

Prohibition is the mother of invention. Its latest child is the new little "cocktail kitchen," which all the smart, new hotels are featuring—just another one of those things we never heard of, B. P.

The only road to a man's conscience is through his heart. You can't rule him by making him afraid of you or sorry for you or even grateful to you—only by making him love you.

The airplane is the greatest invention of civilization—because it will take you farthest AWAY from it.

Most of a man's sufferings can be traced to his sins—most of a woman's to her follies.

In Paris an American is known by the bottles he keeps—emptying. (Copyright, 1935.)

HANDS UP!

By JOHN KNOX

Following a Cold Trail With Persistence the Forces of the Law Finally Got on the Right Path and Got the Men Responsible for Two Big Holdups and Several Murders.

THE COLD TRAIL

SUMMARY: Bandits have tried to hold up a train in the suburbs of Pittsburgh and to steal a $400,000 payroll. Almost trapped by the self-sacrificing coolness of an express messenger, the bandits are defeated and several of them captured. One is killed resisting arrest and two more are executed for another crime, which express detectives have brought home to them. Then another train is held up, a messenger killed and $23,000 stolen. The express detectives have just begun investigating this crime.

CHAPTER VII

SUPT. H. O. RANEBURG of the express company took charge of the manhunt. One paragraph from a report he made to New York headquarters is particularly illuminating.

"A deadly impression prevails with nearly all of us that those who are best qualified to identify the robbers will hesitate or decline to do so through fear of violence or bodily harm from these connected with the crime or their sympathizers. This is particularly evident with the train crew."

The detectives went up against the blank wall of silence which so often hampers the work of police in the foreign sections of large cities. They also had to rescue the county from its fear of death at the hands of the bandits before they could call for a job completed. That fear of vengeance or crime, the nals and their friends is the worst handicap the law has to face.

Let us turn to the report of Supt. J. A. McCulloch of the express company for a showing of the first break of the bandit's defenses.

"On Wednesday afternoon, Oct. 15, we received information from several sources that a Dodge car used by three Italians had been observed in and around Twin Rocks, also that it was seen for several weeks going to and coming from a farmhouse located in the hills about two miles back of the town. The house is owned and occupied by D. Geovana, an Italian about 40 years of age, and his family. Geovana is a coal miner and is employed in one of the mines near his home."

Nothing very dramatic in that, perhaps. The regular visits of an automobile to a farmhouse are not material of which mysteries are usually wary. But people who live in the country are quick to observe any deviation from the accustomed course of events. Where there are no crowds, every action of the individual is under keen observation and is the subject of busy comment.

The Geovana farmhouse was raided by a squad of officers. Geovana and one John Galugi were arrested. Mrs. Geovana was in bed, she claimed to be too ill to get up, so the raiding party interrogated her without asking her to move.

All three of the residents of the lonely farmhouse disclaimed any knowledge of the holdup, the bandits or their affairs, but the officers insisted on searching the house in spite of their voluble protests.

In making their getaway from the train, two of the bandits who had posed as passengers had forgotten to take the handbags they carried. Both had been seized and the contents listed. Early in the search of Geovana's house, the raiders found clothing which matched up with clothing which had been in the handbags left on the train. Next they found a much-needed supply of a showing of the first break of the bandit's defenses.

"On Wednesday afternoon, Oct. 15, we received information from several sources that a Dodge car used by three Italians had been observed in and around Twin Rocks, also that it was seen for several weeks going to and coming from a farmhouse located in the hills about two miles back of the town. The house is owned and occupied by D. Geovana, an Italian about 40 years of age, and his family. Geovana is a coal miner and is employed in one of the mines near his home."

Thrilling Romance Coming

"For the Love of a Lady."

The latest success of JEFFERY FARNOL, master of romantic fiction, will begin next Monday and continue every day in the Post-Dispatch Daily Magazine.

Readers who enjoy a story of gripping adventure and soul-stirring love will read every installment of this popular novelist's latest romance.

He had noticed that new fenders had been put on both the front and rear of the left side. Inquiry developed the information that the work of putting on the fenders had been done by a man named Englehart, who runs a garage in Ebersburg. Englehart said that at the time he did the work the car belonged to Pete Antonuccio of Spangler, Pa., but that the car was being used by a man he did not know. This man lived at Tippecanoe, a small mining settlement nearby.

"Yesterday afternoon our men drove over to Spangler and met Pete Antonuccio. He is quite clever and apparently prosperous as he runs a poolroom and takes care of a building which he owns. He admitted ownership of the Dodge car, but claimed to have sold it to an Italian about three months ago. Later he said, the buyer returned the car with the statement that he could not meet the deferred payments. Antonuccio took the car back and on Oct. 16 exchanged it in Barnesboro for another Dodge car, paying a cash difference.

"Antonuccio knew very little when questioned and told several stories which did not agree with each other. His memory for dates was very bad and equally bad for names, so much so that he could not remember the name of the man to whom he had sold the car.

The previous July, one Frank Pischetta, with whom Geovana had worked in a coal mine at Colver two years before, came to the house of Geovana. He was returned with another man and arranged with Geovana and his wife to board the stranger for a while. Pischetta then took up his own quarters as a paying guest of the Geovana home.

From time to time, four other men visited the two, the conferences growing in frequency up to the time of the robbery. Geovana was always excluded from these conferences, although he knew quite well what they were about. The meetings continued up to the day before the robbery. Geovana admitted that Pischetta, the other boarder and two more were in the house when he retired that night. When he arose in the morning, they were gone.

All of the men except the strange boarder lived within a circle of 20 miles radius from the scene of the holdup. They were all well known and it would be only a question of time until they were all picked up—the man who had been the inspiration and leader of the gang was a stranger. That was the unknown boarder at the Geovana house.

From the several sources that we had opened up, the detectives pointed in an entirely new direction.

The scene shifted 500 miles west from the troubled Pennsylvania mountains and detectives hurried to Indiana to set a trap which was to snap shut almost as soon as it was set.

I will let a report of one of the express company detectives tell the story of the dramatically swift action of the man hunt which followed the discovery of the new lead.

"After finding a card with the name 'Ugo' Paulucci, Clinton, Indiana, in the trunk at the Childe house, State Police Tomak and I came to Clinton last Friday. We learned that 'UGO' was known to the local police and to the Postmaster and that he had been in town for some time. We returned on Oct. 15 and was around town for a few days, being last seen on Wednesday, Oct. 11.

"Two of our special agents from Chicago were here to work with us and after covering the ground it was decided to have the Postmaster and the local police cover Clinton and the two special agents cover Terre Haute and Indianapolis, while Tomak and I returned to Colver.

"Tuesday afternoon I received a wire at Colver that two men had been picked up at Terre Haute, one of them believed to be Ugo. Mr. McFague and I left Colver immediately and upon our arrival went to the Terre Haute police station. After checking up the evidence we feel certain that the two men under arrest, Michele Basi and Toni Peral are the two men who did the shooting when Garman was killed. Basi is 'Ugo,' who did the actual killing of the messenger. The other man, Peral, is the short man who was also in the railroad car and did part of the shooting. Neither of these men will talk but perhaps we can get some information out of them after we get back to Pennsylvania.

In the meantime Pete Valentini had been picked up by the Clinton police and his room searched. A number of letters and addresses found in his room lead us to believe that he knows a lot about the gang and it may be possible that he was a party to the holdup. We found a black bodied, model 1933 Buick touring car in his possession which he says belongs to Ugo. We seized the car and took Valentini with us to Terre Haute where we placed him in jail with the other two. We telephoned Lieut. Mauch of the Pennsylvania State Police and he went to Harrisburg, Pa., last evening for extradition papers. We expect him here tomorrow morning (Friday, Oct. 11) after which we will start back to Pennsylvania."

Ugo's carefully built lines of defense had all fallen. As in the case of another gang leader of whom I have told, he had been beaten by his own overkill. Leaving the card with his Clinton address in his trunk at the Childe house had been the fatal weakness in all his carefully laid plans. Last night three weeks ago he shot down Garman without warning. He was in jail, with the evidence that would convict him being swiftly woven.

Heavy Profit-Taking Inspired by Belief That Market Was Entitled to Technical Reaction.

$7,000,000 IN GOLD FROM GREAT BRITAIN

Day's Major Activity on the Up Side but Final Quotations Show Many Declines of 1 to 4 Points.

By the Associated Press.
NEW YORK, June 15.—Heavy profit-taking, inspired by the belief that the market was entitled to at least a technical reaction after its recent advance, turned the course of stock prices irregular just before the close of today's market. While the day's major activity was on the up-side, final quotations also disclosed a rather long list of net declines ranging from 1 to nearly 4 points. Resumption of gold shipments from Great Britain, which are expected to ease the mid-year credit strain, was one important development of the day's news. Official announcement was made of the organization of the new public utility holding company formed by the Morgan-Bonbright interests, and special dividend distributions were announced by a few small companies. Call money held steady at 7 per cent all day, and the gold market played a somewhat easier undertone, with all maturities quoted at par. Some Net Declines. General Electric lost its early gain of 3 points in the late selling and net declines of 2 points or more were recorded by Montgomery-Ward, Detroit Edison, U. S. Industrial Alcohol, Commonwealth and Wright Aircraft. Baldwin Locomotive, which is quoted according to rumor to announce a 4 for 1 stock split up in next few days, soared 13 points. Standard Gas & Electric, Westinghouse Electric closed 8 points higher and American Waterworks, American Power Light, International Telephone, Du Pont, Pacific Telephone, American Telephone, Public Service of New Jersey and American showed net gains of 2 to 6 points. Wheat and corn futures advanced about a cent a bushel. Cotton closed unchanged to 50 cents a bale lower. Sterling Exchanges held steady until the year's low level. The London Paper peso dropped to a low level, and the Canadian dollar continued at a discount of 1/2 of a cent. Gold Movement Here. Taking of $7,000,000 additional gold for shipment to New York the bulk of it, or $5,000,000 being purchased direct from the bank of England, brings total of metal taken there for the present movement which was early in February with the aid of the bank of England's $10,000,000 before it terminated. Presindications are that the current movement will continue until something develops to stiffen the exchange and make such transactions unprofitable. The movement Wall Street is interested in the movement, particularly for the reason that it sees in gold inflating a further influence toward the straining on money of the approaching mid-year settlements. Advance in General Electric. Aggressive demand for General Electric and Westinghouse Manu- factures of heavy electrical equipment, both being established in record territory, featured the list. As a holder of a substantial block of Mohawk-Hudson, General Electric naturally stands benefit through the pend- g new situation is looked upon as a length. Heavy buying of the two firms' equipment manufacturers' stock is generally looked upon as a part of the expectation that the three firms' holding companies, formed to promote co- operation in the utility field, will in the linking of properties on a large scale and consequent demand for materials necessitate such a program.
